ORDINANCE NO. 2021-008

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF CULVER CITY, STATE OF CALIFORNIA, ESTABLISHING PREMIUM HAZARD PAY FOR ON-SITE HOSPITAL WORKERS AT COVERED HOSPITALS

WHEREAS, the novel coronavirus ("COVID-19") disease is caused by a virus that spreads easily from person to person and may result in serious illness or death, and is classified by the World Health Organization (WHO) as a worldwide pandemic; and

WHEREAS, on March 14, 2020, the City Manager, as the Director of Emergency Services, issued a Proclamation of Local Emergency due to the COVID-19 pandemic, which was ratified by the City Council on March 18, 2020 by Resolution No. 2020-R015. Such action followed the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health’s (LACDHP) and the Chair of the Board of Supervisor’s declarations of a local health emergency, the State of California’s declaration of a State of Emergency on March 4, 2020, and the declaration of a National Emergency on March 13, 2020; and

WHEREAS, after issuing local health emergency declarations, the County of Los Angeles, with guidance from the State of California, issued public health orders requiring the closure or modified operations of numerous business sectors, and ordered the general public to stay ‘safer at home’, except to provide essential services and to engage in essential activities, to mitigate the spread and the effects of COVID-19; and

WHEREAS, hospital operations were determined to be part of the essential infrastructure, and hospital workers were identified to be essential workers who continued to report to work throughout the pandemic and work long hours to serve their communities, despite the ongoing health hazard of being exposed to COVID-19; and

WHEREAS, on May 14, 2021, the LACDPH issued an amended order with modified restrictions, based on, among other things, the following determinations: evidence of continued community transmission of COVID-19 within the County; asymptomatic transmission has been documented; evidence that a significant portion of the County population continues to be at risk for infection with serious health complications, including hospitalizations and death from COVID-19, due to age or pre-existing health conditions; and further evidence that other County residents, including younger and otherwise healthy people, are also at risk for serious negative health outcomes and for transmitting the virus to others. The City Council acknowledges that these conditions exist; and

WHEREAS, according to the LACDPH, as of May 6, 2021 over 10,000 Hospital Workers have been infected with COVID-19. As of May 6, 2021 hospitals continue to report the highest proportion of overall employee infection among all healthcare worker and first responder settings, and nurses continue to face the highest risk of infection among all healthcare workers and first responders in Los Angeles County, totaling approximately five times as many reported cases as the next occupation with the highest number of reported cases; and

WHEREAS, according to the LACDPH, the vast majority of known exposures among COVID-19 positive healthcare workers and first responders occurred in a healthcare setting, reflecting the continued dangers and risks faced by Hospital Workers; and

WHEREAS, while existing community transmission of COVID-19 is at a lower level, it continues to present a substantial and significant risk of harm to the health of County residents and workforce. Only 43.5% of people over the age of 16 in Los Angeles County are fully vaccinated against COVID-19, leaving the majority of the population susceptible to infections. Further, according to the LACDPH, as of May 14, 2021 there remains a strong likelihood that increased interactions among members of the public who are not fully vaccinated against COVID-19 may result in an increased number of cases of community transmission. Making the community transmission problem worse, some individuals who contract the virus causing COVID-19 have no symptoms or only mild symptoms, and so are unaware that they carry the virus and are transmitting it to others. As the LACDPH concluded, as of May 14, 2021, the public health emergency and attendant risks to public health associated with COVID-19 still predominate despite the availability of the vaccine; and

WHEREAS, Hospital Workers in Culver City put themselves and their families at increased risk every day to care for patients with COVID-19 and are facing now and will face substantial risk and burden over the coming weeks and months; and

WHEREAS, caring for COVID-19 patients may also take an emotional toll on Hospital Workers, who often serve as family surrogates for very ill or dying patients and must bear the stress of record hospitalizations, declining caregiver-to-patient ratios, longer work shifts and deferred time off; and

WHEREAS, in 2021 the Centers for Disease Control and Infection (CDC) has reported that multiple COVID-19 variants are circulating globally that appear to spread more quickly and easily than other variants. Variants are present in Los Angeles County, and the efficacy of vaccines against these new variants remains under investigation. While the impact of these variants is not fully known, other nearby states including Oregon, Nevada, Utah, and Arizona are experiencing a recent increase in case and hospitalization rates. As COVID-19 cases continue to spread throughout the region,
Hospital Workers continue to face health threats, including the threat from the potentially more contagious variants of the coronavirus that have been detected in California; and

WHEREAS, despite the availability of vaccines, the existence of vaccine hesitancy individuals, vaccine refusal, and age and health conditions that prevent vaccination mean that Hospital Workers will still be required to interface with and treat individuals who have not been vaccinated over the coming weeks and months; and

WHEREAS, according to a study by the Urban Institute, a nonprofit health policy center, more than one-third of adults between the ages of 18 and 64 have forgone or delayed medical care because of COVID-19. Even as community transmission of COVID-19 declines, this pent-up demand for healthcare will place a substantial burden on Hospital Workers; and

WHEREAS, even with growing percentages of the public becoming vaccinated against COVID-19, Hospitals Workers still face increased risks and burdens due to the fact that their employment requires them to work directly and over longer periods of time with those with symptomatic COVID-19, as well as asymptomatic carriers and those at higher risk of being asymptomatic carriers, including individuals who have not or cannot take the vaccine; and

WHEREAS, as the CDC has recognized, some individuals with COVID-19 experience symptoms and require healthcare services for an extended period of time, a phenomenon termed “Long Haul COVID;” “Long Haul COVID” may continue to place a strain on the healthcare system and Hospital Workers for a substantial period of time; and

WHEREAS, as the CDC has recognized, there is limited data on vaccine protection in people who are immunocompromised. Hospital Workers’ employment requires them to treat and interface with people with immunocompromising conditions; and

WHEREAS, in recognition of the heightened risks facing Hospital Workers and those they treat, the recently relaxed masking guidelines released by the CDC still call for wearing masks in, among other places, hospitals; and

WHEREAS, according to the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), worker classifications which have a "Very High Exposure Risk" to COVID-19 includes jobs with a very high potential for exposure to known or suspected sources of COVID-19 during specific medical, postmortem, or laboratory procedures; and

WHEREAS, examples of workers in the Very High Exposure Risk category include healthcare workers such as nurses and emergency medical technicians performing aerosol-generating procedures (e.g., intubation, cough induction procedures, bronchoscopies, or invasive specimen collection) on known or suspected COVID-19 patients; and healthcare or laboratory personnel collecting or handling specimens from known or suspected COVID-19 patients (e.g., manipulating cultures from known or suspected COVID-19 patients); and

WHEREAS, OSHA further identifies "High Exposure Risk" worker classifications as those with jobs with a high potential for exposure to known or suspected sources of COVID-19, and this classification includes healthcare delivery and support staff (including hospital staff who must enter patients’ rooms) exposed to known or suspected COVID-19 patients, and those persons who have frequent or sustained contact with coworkers, including under close working conditions indoors or in poorly ventilated spaces; and
WHEREAS, through this Ordinance, the City seeks to compensate essential Hospital Workers for their daily sacrifices and the ongoing risks and burdens they and their families face while providing vital services to the community during the pandemic and in the coming weeks and months; and

WHEREAS, by requiring premium hazard pay for their work during the COVID-19 pandemic, the City aims (1) to protect the health and welfare of its essential Hospital Workers, their families, and the community; (2) to recognize and compensate Hospital Workers for the risks and burdens they face every day and will continue to face in the coming months; (3) support stable incomes among Hospital Workers; and (4) promote job retention by ensuring Hospital Workers are adequately compensated for the substantial risks, efforts, and expenses they are undertaking to provide essential services in a safe and reliable manner.
